Professional Profile

Megan's practice focuses on employment litigation, defending businesses against individual and class action claims of discrimination, harassment, wrongful termination, breach of contract, and wage and hour violations. Megan also negotiates and drafts employment agreements and advises clients on statutory compliance and litigation avoidance, helping businesses navigate day-to-day employment decisions and policy development. Megan has obtained favorable decisions for her clients in state and federal courts as well as multiple government agencies charged with enforcing employment laws.

Megan joined Berkowitz Oliver in 2016, returning to her hometown of Kansas City after spending 13 years in Denver, Colorado. Upon graduating from the University of Colorado Law School, Megan clerked for the Honorable Laurie Booras of the Colorado Court of Appeals and then practiced at a full-service firm in Denver, where she also concentrated on employment litigation and advice. Prior to law school, Megan worked in advertising and marketing, specializing in writing and editing for local and national clients.
